GERMANS RECAPTURE GALACIAN CAPITAL

Lemberg Had Been in Possession of Russians Since Last September and is Considered an Important Military Base Owing to Its Railroad Facilities

(Special to The Herald)

Vienna, June 23.—The recapture of Lemberg, capital of Galicia, was officially announced today. In the recapture of this important city by the Austro-Hungarian forces, it was taken by the second army after violent fighting. The city is celebrating the recapture of Lemberg and within a short time after the announcement flags were flying from nearly every house. The recapture of Lemberg is regarded as one of the greatest victories of the war, owing to the interest attached to the city. It is a seat of art and learning and before the war had a population of 107,000. From a military view point the recapture is of vast importance to the Teutonic troops, as it controls a vast network of railroads leading to all points in Eastern Galicia. It is likely that the army that captured the city captured a vast amount of supplies as the Russians had been using it as a base. Lemberg is the greatest railroad center in Eastern Galicia and was captured by the Russians on Sept. 4, 1914.

ITALIAN FLEET ON WAY TO JOIN ALLIES AT DARDANILLES

(Special to The Herald)
London, June 23.—The Italian fleet has sailed from Tarento for the Dardanelles to join the Anglo-French fleet in their operations against the Turkish fortifications at the Dardanelles, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from their Copenhagen correspondent. The correspondent stated that this information was secured through dispatches arriving at Berlin today.

SNOWS STOP ITALIAN ADVANCE INTO AUSTRIA

(Special to The Herald)
Rome, June 23.—Heavy snows in the heights where the Italian forces are advanced against the Austrians are proving a heavy handicap to the troops of King Victor Emmanuel. This has resulted in the cessation of operations in the highest mountain sections.

On the lower levels the Italians and Austrians are engaged in a great artillery duel. The Italians have reached the massive steel and concrete defenses constructed by the Austrians and it will be necessary to reduce these before the advance can be resumed.

WILL BE STUDIED BY SECRETARY LANSING

(Special to The Herald)
Washington, June 23.—The British memorandum dealing with the seizure by Great Britain of American goods consigned to neutral European ports, reached the state department today. It was officially announced. The document will not be made public until after it has been studied by Secretary Lansing.

Meanwhile the department officials refuse to discuss the case as to any change to be made in the proposed protest to England on which the officials have been at work for the past two weeks.

REPORTS ABOUT NORTH CAROLINA

Department May Order Vessel
Away On Short Notice.

All kinds of stories have been in the air since Tuesday regarding the U. S. S. North Carolina. One story has it that the ship will leave here in a short time and proceed to the coast of Mexico. The navy department has communicated with the yard heads and commander of the ship and inquiries have been made as to how much coal is aboard the vessel, how many officers and men are needed and what headway has been made with repairs. Captain Snowden, commander of the yard, stated today that no orders have been received as to a sudden departure of the vessel and that the workmen were proceeding with repairs and some of the men allowed furloughs. He could not say what might follow in the way of orders regarding the ship. It is known, however, that a request has been made to get the cruiser in the dry dock as soon as possible and that the workmen have been instructed not to undertake any repair work that cannot be put together in four days time.

Questions easy to answer: Is the North Carolina going away or is she going to stay?

THAW TESTIFIES IN OWN BEHALF AT TRIAL TODAY

Describes His Escape From Matteawan and Subsequent Life in New Hampshire.

(Special to The Herald)

New York, June 23.—Harry K. Thaw fighting for freedom after nine years in prison for the killing of Stanford White, took the stand today as the first witness in his trial to have his sanity tested by a jury. Thaw took the stand after his attorney, John H. Stansfield and Deputy Atty. General Cook had made their opening addresses to the jury this morning. Thaw was calm and smiling and was apparently sure of himself. He was dressed in a dark blue suit and wore a black tie.

This is Thaw's first appearance in a court before a jury as a plaintiff and not as a criminal. He sent smiling glances towards his mother and sister, Mrs. Mary C. Thaw and Mrs. George L. Carnegie.

Thaw began his testimony with the usual answers to the usual questions. He gave his name as Harry Kendall Thaw, his age as 44 years and his birth place at Pittsburgh. After the usual preliminary questions had been answered, Thaw told of his escape from Matteawan on August 17, 1914, and of his stay in Canada and New Hampshire. The story was substantially the same as he related in the trial for conspiracy last March.

Thaw appeared in fine spirits and ended that he felt certain that he would be judged sane by the jury.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS WERE WHITE WASHED

Pilgrim Pitched No-Hit, No-Run Game For the Morley Button Co.

Nine big fat runs from a dandy batting test in the fourth inning of last evening's game between the Morley Button Company and the Knights of Columbus won the game for the former team. Up to that inning it looked like an even thing and some were ready to place a few that the game would be extra innings. Neither pitcher had been hit safe up to the opening of the fourth and everything looked fine for some more good ball, but the Morley team found Moran and before they were through with him Paul Bailey had to come to his relief.

Pilgrim pitched great ball all the way through the game. There was not a safe hit made off his delivery and with the exception of the two bases on balls he gave and a couple of errors behind him, not a man would have reached first. But pitching a no-hit, no-run game, even in five innings in the Sunset league is "considerable" pitching.

On account of Moser being late, Davis of the Consolidation Coal Company was allowed to go into the game in his place. Davis started the game in right, Able playing third and Hefferan played short. Moser showed up at the end of the second and took his place at short, Able going to right in place of Davis and Hefferan covering third.

There was a couple of sensational plays pulled off. In the first inning O'Brien made a fine catch off Davis. In the second Moran made a great stop off Bates, getting his man at first. In the fourth McDonald made a good catch off J. Bailey and threw to Huntoon for a double, getting Reardon before he could get back to the bag.

The Game

1st Inning—J. Timmons hit the ball and was safe on an error made by Huntoon. Wilkinson sacrificed him to second, going out at first, Pilgrim to Huntoon. O'Brien flied out to Bates in left. Reardon was out at first, Pilgrim to Huntoon. No runs.

McDonald hit down the first base line and was out at first, P. Bailey to Moran, who covered the bag. Able drew a pass. Pilgrim was safe at first, forcing Able at second, Moran to Hefferan. Davis popped a fly to Moran. No runs.

2d Inning—J. Bailey was fanned, P. Bailey was safe at first on an error by McDonald. T. Timmons struck out, P. Bailey was out stealing, Barratt to McDonald. No runs.

Huntoon was out at first, P. Timmons to Wilkinson. Hefferan fanned. Bates hit to Pilgrim and was thrown out at first. No runs.

3rd Inning—P. Timmons fanned and was out at first, Barratt to Huntoon. Moran struck out. J. Timmons drew a pass. Wilkinson hit to McDonald, who fumbled the ball and threw bad, allowing Wilkinson to land safe at first, Timmons making third. Timmons attempted to score on a passed ball and was out at home, Barratt to Pilgrim. No runs.

Barratt was thrown out at first, P. Bailey to Wilkinson. Moran and McDonald fanned. No runs.

4th Inning—O'Brien flied out when Barratt captured his foul fly. Reardon walked. J. Bailey hit into a double play, flying out to McDonald, who threw to first getting Reardon. No runs.

Able hit to center for two bases. Pilgrim singled over second, scoring Able and taking second on the throw to the plate. Moser was passed. Huntoon hit to left for a single, scoring Pilgrim and advancing Moser to third, taking second on the throw in. Hefferan singled, scoring Moser and advancing Huntoon to third. Bates drew a pass, and was caught at first, J. Bailey to Wilkinson. Barratt singled over second and took second when the throw to the plate was made to prevent Hefferan from tallying. Moran hit to J. Timmons who threw wild to first, allowing Moran to make the base and Hefferan to score. Barratt went to third on a passed ball. McDonald singled to center and made the circuit when T. Timmons lost the ball, Moran tallying before him. Able singled through short. P. Bailey, relieved Moran in the box. Pilgrim hit to short right for two bases, advancing Able to third. He scored on a passed ball. Moser was out at first, P. Bailey to Wilkinson. Huntoon was hit with a pitched ball. He made the third out attempting to steal second, P. Bailey to Davis. Nine runs.

5th Inning—P. Bailey flied out to Bates in left. T. Timmons was out at first, Moser to Huntoon. P. Timmons flied out to Bates. No runs.

HAMPTON BEACH LOOKING FOR MOST BUSY SEASON

The activity at Hampton Beach at this time of the year is unprecedented, according to the old timers who have resided in the town for years. It is rarely, if ever, that a hotel opens for the summer season much before the latter part of June or the first of July and this year some of the biggest hostilities have already thrown open their doors and are registering guests nearly every day.

Many of the buildings have been remodeled in order to accommodate a large number of guests. Indications are that this will be one of the busiest seasons at the beach, for cottages are nearly all rented and the hotel proprietors are receiving requests for rooms by each mail.

The first services of the season at St. Peter's-by-the-Sea will be held a week from next Sunday and will continue through until Sept. 5th. The Rev. Charles Whitecombe Tyler will occupy the pulpit a part of the time and other clergymen of the denomination will supply at intervals.

Autoists will be interested to learn that the various highways in the vicinity of Hampton are being put in readiness for the vast summer travel which has already commenced. The state road and boulevard are being resurfaced and other gangs are working along through the town itself. A large force of men are employed in building the new stretch of state road from Salisbury Junction to the Mill bridge. For a long stretch the road is being torn up and the road roller is being used to make the repairs.

The finishing touches are being put on the new sewer which has been installed during the past few weeks. The stone work along the outlet is being touched up and many of the

CAN'T CHIN BAR; MAY NOT GRADUATE

PECULIAR CASE ARISES AT TRINITY COLLEGE

Hartford, Conn., June 22—Failure to pass a horizontal bar exercise, one of the gymnasium requirements of Trinity College, may result in the loss of his degree to the salutatorian of the senior class, Thomas Herbert Robinson, of Waterbury, Mass. Action taken by the Trinity faculty on Saturday, and continued in force today, will probably bar Robinson from delivering his salutatory and honor oration at the commencement exercises tomorrow.

The situation is not exactly a new one. There have been men whose diplomas have been held up on that ground, but never before in the history of Trinity has the salutatorian, ranking second highest in his class for the academic work of the entire four years of the course, been denied the right of graduation with his class simply because he had failed to pass certain gymnasium tests on the work of freshman and sophomore years.

Robinson loses even more than his B. A. degree, for he has also won by his classroom work the degree of M. A. He had honors in general scholarship, special honors in history, and last year won the Douglas history prize for his essay on "Commission Government as Applied to States."

Robinson is a son of William K. Robinson of Waterbury. He was graduated in 1911 from the Waterbury high school, where he was the high stand man in his class. At Trinity he has won the Phi Beta Kappa key and other academic distinctions.

PUPILS OF MISS THOMPSON PLEASED LARGE AUDIENCE LAST EVENING

The pupils of Miss Ethel Whitton Thompson did wonderful work last evening in their recital given in Association Hall. The recital was attended by an appreciative audience which completely filled the hall and the efforts of the performers were heartily applauded after each number. Many of the numbers were extremely difficult and it was remarkable that such finished work could be produced by students, many of which had been studying only a short time.

The pupils were assisted in their recital by Miss Mary Jacobs, mezzo-soprano, who sang several numbers in a beautiful and pleasing manner.

1915 CLASS HISTORY

In September, nineteen hundred and eleven, there dawned the banner day for the Portsmouth High School! We, the Class of Nineteen Hundred and Fifteen, famed in song and story, arrived! To all appearances we were like most freshman classes, but within, smoldered that spirit which has won us the honor and glory that we so justly deserve. In that memorable year we chose the colors of white and gold, which we have waved in triumph over many a vanquished foe. A great sorrow came to us in that year in the death of Leslie Downs, a member of our class. We did not win in basketball in that year, although our remarkable scholastic ability gave promise of future greatness.

We commenced our Sophomore year with steady advance in renown. In our first class meeting that year we elected Sherman Newton, president; Doris Beane, vice-president; Hopo Akerman, secretary; and Frank Massey, treasurer. Then came the question over which all classes ponder and finally decide in fear and trembling after much futile discussion. We were no exception to this rule, but finally came to a decision regarding our class pins. At the end of this year we chose our officers for the Junior year: John Hasselt, as our president; Eunice Kenney, vice-president; John Shillaber, treasurer, and Lois Seybolt, secretary. The girls of the Class of Nineteen Hundred and Fifteen fairly outdid themselves when, at the graduating exercises, Lois Seybolt received the Haven medal for general excellence, while Doris Beane, Frances Parker and Beatrice Frye received honorable mention.

In the fall of nineteen hundred and thirteen we returned as Juniors. Although regret was felt throughout the school because of the loss of our former principle, Mr. Hobbs, the Portsmouth High School was fortunate in securing the services of a most able man, Mr. Thurston. The musical ability of our class was made prominent when our orchestra furnished the music, which was an important addition to the nineteen hundred fourteen play, "The Sleeping Car." Throughout the winter term there were exciting conflicts with the strong Senior basketball team, which resulted in one victory for us. This paved the way for our championship in nineteen hundred and fifteen. In the spring of this year one of the most important events of the class took place in the election of our senior officers. The class showed its appreciation of John Hasselt's ability by re-electing him to the office of president; Mabel Young was chosen for our vice-president; Merle Smith, secretary, and Garland Tucker, treasurer.

In September, nineteen hundred and fourteen, we entered upon the glory and dignity of our Senior year. The vacancy left by Mr. Thurston has been ably filled by our present principal, Mr. Dunfield. The school paper, about which so much has been planned and so little accomplished, has at last attained publication and our president made the editor-in-chief and through his business ability several highly entertaining editions have been published.

At the end of the fall term the most successful play ever given at the High School was produced by our class. "Sweet Lavender" contained great moral and dramatic qualities and with the untiring efforts and hearty encouragement of Mr. Nickerson and Miss Beane was ably produced. John Hasselt, the star, quite surpassed his former efforts. Paul Conover, the handsome lover, was an able second. Mabel Young portrayed the sweet and lovable character of Lavender most charmingly. Eunice Kenney took the intensely dramatic part of Lavender's unfortunate mother. Donald Finlayson, the intrusive American, fondly loved Minnie Gillman. Garland Tucker took the part of the elderly Mr. Wedderburn, the brother of the haughty Mrs. Gillman, naturally and well. The other parts were also excellently interpreted.

With the assistance of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, our class benefit was second to none as a social and financial success. On the same night a New Year's celebration was enjoyed by all at intermission, which made our benefit seem gay and different from the rest.

Close upon the heels of the benefit came debate work. Such interest has never been aroused within our memory. Although our boys did not gain the decision, it was not through lack of ability. Much credit should be given to Mr. Dunfield, Mr. Stander and Mr. Maines for faithfully coaching the boys who debated.

It is not necessary to say how delightful our Washington trip proved to be.

Again we feel proud to say that in the spring of 1915 our class won the basketball championship.

Many class meetings have been held during the spring. At one of these the class motto was chosen: "No Quest, No Conquest," which applies to our class most admirably.

Time passes on with winged feet and forbids me to linger and bring back to memory the happy days spent within the walls of the dear old P. H. S. Words fail when I try to express my appreciation of the kind and untiring efforts of our various teachers, but may we all live as to bring honor, if not glory, to those whom we so highly esteem. And now, we, the Class of Nineteen Hundred and Fifteen, as we are about to leave dear old P. H. S., bid farewell and good luck to those classes which we leave.

DORIS BEANE,
HOPE AKERMAN.

CLASS PROPHECY, 1915

Outside, one could scarcely believe that it is June. The night is pitch black, the rain comes down in a monotonous beat, and the wind whistles through the whole house. But here in my cosy sitting-room it is comfort itself. The light is low and the fire on the hearth glows a soft, warm glow over the room. Such times are made for dreaming, and as I gaze into the flickering flames, memories of the past, faces that are loved, and never-to-be-forgotten, are all recalled. It brings to memory another June night, ten long years ago; but this was a real, heaven-sent June with its fragrant, balmy air and the soft summer breezes. It is again commencement night, and one after another the gay or sweetly serious faces of my classmates smile at me as they sway and glide through the dance. Where are they all now? Fancy leads me on.

Under the glare of the foot-lights, pretty, dimpled, little Hope Akerman might after night create a sensation caused only by such a splendid actress. But a great part of Miss Akerman's success is due to her wonderful gowns that Madame Gertrude Call has designed, for this has proved to be Gertrude's genius.

In another crowded house, Miss Rachael Bryant, as the sweetheart heroine of Mr. Paul Conover, fills the hearts of the picture audience with throbs of tender emotion or exquisite danger. Such is their role in "The Loves of Louise."

The stage has also allured Miss Dorothy Hogue. Dorothy plays her parts with such charming vivacity that she has gained great popularity. It is whispered, however, that a certain foreign duke rather appeals to Dorothy and that she likes him a little bit. Not's smile has been her fate.

But the glare of the footlights has not claimed all of our noble youths and maidens, for today one of the most famous of our women lawyers is Miss Eunice Kenney.

Of course, women have long since gained their rights and Portsmouth is well represented at Washington. Famous for their productive and stirring speeches in Congress are Miss Ethel Kenney and Miss Lois Seybolt. And the present governor of Nebraska is not a mere man, but a real woman—Miss Frances Parker.

Washington is also the home of Mr. Leon Roberts, who is now assistant secretary of the Navy. There is now being constructed, under the supervision of Mr. Roberts, a superdreadnought named the "Portsmouth." If the zodiac ship goes down, it will not be the fault of the captain; for who would make a better captain than Jack Timmons? Jack is fresh from the Naval Academy where he has more than made good.

This is no surprise, however, for every member of our class has made good. Our former vice-president, Miss Mabel Young, is now a domestic-science instructor in a Maine high school. In the same school Miss Hazel Somerville preaches stenography and typewriting to a large student body.

Even in Europe our class is represented. When a rich Italian noble, or a Spanish count, or even a polite French duke desires a new limousine of first class quality, he immediately sends for Mr. Frank Massey, who has an unrivalled record for selling 1923 models. It may be of interest to know that Frank is not alone on his travels, for Frank is now living the happy married life with Louise. Many young braves have tried for the hand of Miss French, but only one succeeded.

In the business world, our class is represented by accurate, speedy stenographers, efficient bankers, and faithful secretaries. Today Miss Beatrice Frye holds the national championship for speed in shorthand and Miss Gertrude Lear has the record of champion typist. Mr. George Trefethen handles fortunes every day—in a large Boston bank, and Miss Irene Booma also counts out greenbacks in the same establishment. Upon the shoulders of Miss Nora Crowley rests all the burdens of a private secretary, but Nora still shows no desire to give in. In the same broker's office Miss Katherine Soule acts as assistant secretary and Alice Kiley is head stenographer. It is no wonder that the world is busier and better than ever.

In another section of the country, down in South Carolina, there is another branch of our class. Instead of having private tutors and stiff governesses, the aristocrats of the South send their girls to the Dixie school, which is a select school under the management of Miss Doris Beane and Miss Doris Kaula. On the stern faculty board are Miss Mildred Carl, music teacher; Miss Caroline Marston, instructor in English; and Miss Nellie Craig as teacher of fine arts. The school has already gained a wide reputation and if this excellent board of instructors persevere it will one day become world-known.

Our great metropolis, New York, also harbors a number of P. H. S. '15 graduates. In a flourishing hospital, under the supervision of Doctor Charles Parsons, hundreds of patients are carefully treated by Dr. Margaret Kiley, assisted by Miss Ethel Procter, Miss Elsie Clark, and Miss Nellie Holmes. It is not surprising that many patients leave this haven of relief with teary eyes and kind hearts, as well as bodies made whole.

And these are not the only ones who dwell in New York. Woo to the criminal upon whose trail is the sleuth-eyed Donald Finlayson. And still more woo when he comes under the stern eye of Judge Garland Tucker. These two are now world famous, partly through the stirring "extras" written up by the "club" reporter, Herman Pettigrew. No, Herman has not deserted Merle, for lively Miss Smith is also a reporter for the same staff. Working with Prof. Finlayson is Miss Marion Bryant, who has also brought many law-breakers to justice. It hardly pays to be a crook in these days—especially in New York.

It may have been thought that the Brooklyn bridge would last forever, but last September it fell in a heap, the result of a flaw in the construction. A new bridge is now being built—one that will never fall, for the architect is Mr. Charles Thomas. His right-hand man is Winthrop Burke, who is now a marvelous engineer.

In the field of law we again hear of Portsmouth. Today a man considers himself safe if he can get Mr. Jack Shillaber for his legal adviser; and a criminal is sure of release if he is represented by Hon. William Marvin. Both are deep in politics, and though they are opponents, are nevertheless fast friends. If one were to meet either of these brilliant lawyers he would immediately notice their faultless attire. Upon investigation it would be learned that their wonderful tailor is no less a person than Mr. John Bryant. The saying that "clothes make the man" is not wholly untrue—especially if they are made by J. Bryant & Company.

But one does not need to go to New York to get style—the women at least—for right here in Portsmouth you may get the very latest of modes from Mesdames Beatrice Gardner and Mary Cullinane, fashionable dressmakers. And for a hat to go with your new costume you must, by all means, go to Miss Edith Ashworth if you would have a becoming head-piece. All other milliners have been forced out of business, but it is not surprising at all, for surely one may expect great things of our P. H. S. '15's.

It is proved everywhere—even in the world of baseball. It is not Tressart, nor Golby, or Evers now, but the country is ringing with the names of Jordan, Shuttlesworth or Harrington. A great part of their success is due to the stern but fair coaching of Manager Gibson, who has refused many tempting offers from rival teams. These famous players have also been urged on to victory by stirring poems from the pen of Miss Hazel Kolsch. There is life and challenge in every verse of this striving young poetess and success is assuredly hers.

The name of Miss Barbara Flanagan is not new to the world of music, for today her name is foremost among splendid piano players. But Barbara's fame does not end here. More than one piece of good music bears her name and there is still great promise of better.

And still we hear of P. H. S. '15's. In a large western city there flourishes a great flour mill; the owner of which is Mr. Phillip Long. Its superintendent is Mr. John Cronin. Mr. Cronin is assisted by Mr. Fred Holland, who is head foreman. The stocks of this company play a great part in the financial whirl of Wall Street, but all affairs are safely put under the keen eye of Mr. Franklin Moody. If your uncle has unfortunately died and burdened you with a fortune, the best way to rid yourself of it is to invest it with Mr. Moody. You will receive the glad tidings through the intrepid young telegrapher, Mr. Ralph Berry. It was Ralph who spread the news that Rev. Edwin Becker had been chosen as foreign missionary to Hindustan. It is doubtless that they will all succeed.

Out in the wild and woolly West we find still more of us. We see Effie Archibald riding broncho busters, falling down ravines, and even shooting red-men. And we see Miss Nathalie Hett being rescued from bandits, snatched from the jaws of hungry beasts—and always falling into the hero's strong embrace. But it is all the fault of Miss Mary Daley, who has so prescribed their actions in her queer scenarios. Ethel Leach also acts for the "movies," but her role is always that of a charming young debutante. Ethel is just suited for the part she plays.

In the literary world Miss Pearl Hottel is now famous. Her short stories are delightful as well as excellent pieces of literature. Miss Julia Butler also contributes to current magazines, but on a different scale. Miss Butler is in charge of the food and cooking department of one of the best women's magazines.

Nor are these the only lines in which our brilliant class has taken up. Miss Hilda Gillespie, always eager to travel, now roams to her heart's content as a traveling saleswoman. Her specialty is jewelry. We all have our specialties. That of Miss Bertha Ware is for attractive hair-dressing. Today Miss Ware's hair-dressing parlors are often frequented by the most fastidious of Boston's belles.

Leaving Boston our class still travels on. In a thriving city of Pennsylvania there exists one of the biggest and best playgrounds of the country. As with everything else, its success is due to the leader; in this case too much credit cannot be given to Miss Carolyn Yeaton, who, aided ably by Miss Edith Clough, heads this establishment. It is Miss Yeaton that pushes the project along, but it is clever, joking Miss Clough who makes fun for every little bit.

But all of our classmates have not forsaken good old Portsmouth. In that dear old P. H. S. Miss Nellie Falvey has charge of the commercial department and Miss Annie Anderson deals out knowledge and books from her seat in our high school library.

And last, but in no way least, comes our genial and jovial president, John Hasselt. John is, as you probably know, a brilliant orator. For John, "variety is the spice of life." Just now he is collecting votes for election day when he hopes to be chosen as senator. A few years ago he gave lectures at Harvard on "The Art of Speaking." Never has P. H. S. had a more eloquent valedictorian.

Never has P. H. S. given forth a more worthy group of noble men and good women. It is true that we are not all millionaires, but every member of our loyal class has taken his or her place in the world, and every member has made good. And what more could we wish for? Honors, riches, glory—yes, but by far more valuable to each and every one of us is that inside feeling of having made the most of our opportunities and of helping the world along.

The last face has fled. The flames upon the hearth have ceased to sparkle. A cool breeze from the window sends a cold shiver through me and roughly awakens me from my sacred reverie. They are all gone. Only their sweet memories linger, but they shall never cease. If I had only known what noble characters were among us—and alas, I had let them slip from my life unknown, unloved, and almost forgotten. But how glad and proud am I to know and feel that I, too, belong to that group of faithful, steady world-workers; and though my part is small I will do my best to remember that "No quest, no conquest" plays a great part in our world of today.

Mary Daley.

THE LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF THE CLASS OF NINETEEN HUNDRED FIFTEEN

We, the Class of Nineteen Hundred Fifteen, of the Portsmouth High School, of the City of Portsmouth, in the County of Rockingham, and the State of New Hampshire, being of sound mind and memory, do make, publish and declare, this, our last will and testament, in the manner following; that is to say:

First, we do give and bequeath to the Class of Nineteen Sixteen the honor of being Seniors, together with that staid and decorous demeanor which has always characterized us as a class.

John Hasselt, our energetic president, sorrowfully and tearfully leaves his nocturnal wooing of a pretty Junior to Phil Oulton, on condition that Phil will arrive home promptly at ten o'clock as John always did.

Mabel Young, our blushing and modest vice-president, bestows upon Florence Garland her jealousy of a certain curly-headed Junior.

Garland Tucker, the economical treasurer of the said class, leaves to Philip Slott his crude, immature, and unsophisticated appearance, with the hopes that Philip will not totally ignore the use of such trivial things as brushes, combs, mirrors and other toilet accessories.

Merle Smith, our diligent secretary, confers upon Edith Moulton her systematic and methodical ways, and her vast business experience. This is a valuable bequest, Edith. Make good use of it.

John James Shillaber, otherwise known as "Gasoline Gus," leaves to Wallace Akerman, his epicurean appetite, acquired by motoring in his "little red demon."

Annie Anderson and Katherine Soule leave their deep bass voices to Frances Kimball with one stipulation only, namely, that she shall agree not to use it during service in chapel.

With much regret William Marvin bequeaths his abundant array of hosiery and cravats to Roger Willey. We hope, Roger, that you will not slight your lessons in the study of harmonizing colors, as William has done in the past. Furthermore, Mr. Marvin leaves his oratorical ability and his speed in Latin to Patrick J. Timmons, if Pat will agree not to deprive the other students of the privilege of reciting occasionally.

Edith Ashworth grudgingly leaves to Elsie Robinson her pleasant Sunday afternoon walks with a former Salem Business School student. But, Elsie, you must wear your Sunday-go-to-meeting dress and walk your prettiest.

Ralph Berry gives to Francis Hutchinson his leather-bound book of etiquette, with a

The Intensity of Materialism.

Interesting news of different kinds is coming from Albany, N. Y., these days, owing partly to the fact that the state constitutional convention is in session there, and some of the news is of a character to show how practically every proposition in this country today is reduced to the economic basis, or, to use a more blunt expression, to the plain level of dollars and cents. This is a fact that cannot have escaped the notice of intelligent readers. No matter what the reform proposed, the arguments in its favor are not concluded without calling attention to the "economic" possibilities. If it is proposed to wage war against tuberculosis the gain in the prevention of suffering is not enough; it is considered necessary in order to enlist popular sympathy and support to set forth the "economic" gain that would result from the prolongation of the lives of the thousands who are carried to their graves every year by consumption. And so with practically every movement and so-called reform at the present time. It seems to be considered necessary to show, or attempt to show, that the working out of the multifarious propositions that are coming to the front in such a rapid and ever swelling stream will pay, as viewed from the purely material standpoint of dollars and cents.

A recent dispatch from Albany contained information regarding the work of the New York state board of health during the past year in connection with child hygiene. It was claimed that as a result of a campaign of education in this field the number of deaths of infants in the state was 1,453 fewer than in the year before. If this gain was actually made it is a very gratifying fact. Saving the lives of infants is noble work, but in itself it is not enough in this age of dollars and cents, and for it is stated that aside from all other considerations, and what should be the chief consideration, "the state has gained 1,453 'potential' citizens, and the actual saving in dollars by the preservation of this number of infants, based on the earning capacity of a single individual, amounts to a very large sum."

There you are. Save the babies, not because they are babies and worth saving, but that they may grow to maturity and earn a few dollars. Never mind the humanitarian part of the problem, but keep the "economic" strictly in mind.

This addiction to economics in connection with every human interest is one of the disturbing signs of the times. It is time to wake up to the fact that there are still some things in the world besides dollars and cents, and to govern ourselves accordingly.

There are people in New York state who think men should be able to read and write the English language before being admitted to the list of voters, and an amendment to the constitution is proposed which, if adopted, will bring about that condition. The demand is altogether reasonable. The voter who cannot read and write is a mere tool in the hands of heelers and bosses, and the exclusion of his ballot would be a benefit to any community.

Henry Ford of Detroit believes he has perfected a motor tractor that will revolutionize the farming industry. He has worked on the invention for years and is confident that he has produced a boon to the farmers which will mean increased prosperity for them and a substantial reduction of the cost of living. This sounds well, but "the proof of the pudding is in the eating," and it will be wise to await results with all the patience we can command.

According to an officer in the British army, the chewing of tobacco is the best antidote yet discovered for the gas used by the Germans in some of their attacks. But if the effects of the gas can be offset so simply it can hardly be as terrible as has been represented. The antidote is one that will be cheerfully accepted by the great majority of the soldiers.

To talk peace and prepare for war is the popular program just at present. A contemporary in speaking of the formation of the League of Peace says that nothing of that sort will "justify" a policy of inaction respecting our nation's unpreparedness for an emergency. "Let us have peace." "To arms! to arms!"

It has been decided that the question of Harry K. Thaw's sanity shall be submitted to a jury. The weary length to which this case has been drawn out would indicate that there is insanity connected with it at some point.

An occasional earth tremor is felt in California, but these occurrences are not being "feared" to any great extent just now. There are two big expositions in progress in that state.

"THE GOOD OLD TIMES"

Recollections of Our War Days.

The death of Col. Albert Harrison Hoyt brings back some of the recollections of the days of our Civil War. Before he entered into the service in the Commissary department of the Northern army he was one of the younger members of the Rockingham County Bar, contemporary with Stillman B. Allen, J. Bartlett Claggett, William H. Hackett, Horace Webster, John S. H. Frink and Warren Towle, together with the older lawyers, W. H. Y. Hackett, Albert H. Hackett, James W. Emery and William H. Rollins. All alas! now departed. Mr. Hoyt held his position among these and the young men of Portsmouth with good grace and general good fellowship including many personal friends, and stood well in the social life of his fellow townsmen, both male and female. His loyalty and patriotism commended him very favorably to his Excellency Hon. Ichabod Goodwin the "War Governor" of New Hampshire then in office, and through his influence Mr. Hoyt received the appointment of Colonel in the Commissary Department of the Army. Previously the eighteen regiments of the N. H. V. had been made up and gone away on duty. Among them was the Sixteenth, and of this was Company K with Capt. Joseph H. Thatcher and Lieuts. George T. Wildes and William A. Haven.

The Sixteenth Regiment was assigned to the Division of Gen. Banks. Company K went with the regiment to New Orleans Dec. 21, 1862, and was located at Camp Parapet, eight miles above that city. The regiment did good work at the battles of Port Hudson, La., March 14, 1863, at Baton Rouge, La., April 20, and at the siege of Port Hudson, July 9. Lieut. Wildes died of fever at Baton Rouge, La., April 20, 1863. Mr. Haven then became 1st Lieutenant. The regiment was mustered out Aug. 20, 1863. Capt. Thatcher continued in business in Portsmouth until, on account of illness, he retired in May, 1833, and died Jan. 5, 1892, honored and highly esteemed in the community in which he had been an active member for about half a century.

A member of Company K was Corporal William A. Rand, who afterwards entered the ministry and became a pioneer preacher at South Seabrook, N. H. He had attained some reputation as an athlete and was known in the early part of his ministry as an advocate of muscular Christianity. Rev. Mr. Rand is still conducting a very useful pastorate at South Seabrook.

One day, there came sad news of the death of Lieut. Wildes at Baton Rouge, La., April 20, 1863. A number of his personal friends gathered in the office of Mr. Hoyt to decide upon how to convey the news to Mrs. Wildes, and it was unanimously agreed that Mr. Hoyt was the proper person. His kindly sympathetic nature and peculiar faculty of guarding the feelings of all with whom he should in any way meet, particularly adapted him for such a service. Those who have known him in his later years, and especially those who have always been associated with him have ever held him in kind regard as a friend, and his was a nature that led many to seek his personal acquaintance and friendship.

He was a favorite in the army service, and was in such high esteem with the Government that he was kept in active service in Boston even through the years (approaching threescore) that followed his discharge from active duty on the field, and we presume that he was still in office in Boston when his call came.

Those of us who remained here when most of the regiments had left for the front formed ourselves into a Home Guard. Mr. Hoyt was a prominent member, and we can well remember the training we had at Jefferson Hall, in the vestibule of the Post Office and elsewhere and on the street, under Capt. Henry P. Wendell. We remember, too, the crowds that convened on Daniel street about the time of the drafts, when the supplying of a substitute was the most active and profitable business of Portsmouth, of the stirring time when the Second

CURRENT OPINION

Labor Unions Commendable, But Must Be Restrained From Damaging Industry.

The principle of labor unions I entirely support. The good they have done for the laboring men of this country I am able to point out and would be glad to elaborate if I had time. Putting the men on an equality with their employers was necessary in order that they should share the prosperity of a rising market and not lose too quickly on a falling market.

They have brought about legislation of the most useful character that but for their information would not have been written on the statute books.

But they must be restrained that they may not go on to do serious damage to our industrial community. They are seeking to be a privileged class. They are seeking to take themselves out of the operation of general statutes that ought to apply to them. They are seeking to make themselves immune in carrying on the cruel instrumentality of the boycott, by which they would compel society to take part in controversies between themselves and their employers with which general society has nothing to do.

We have got to learn and our politicians have got to learn to be courageous and not be frightened by the threat that when they do not do a thing, the labor unions will withdraw their support.—By William H. Taft, Former President of the United States.

Regiment was recruited in this city with their barracks at the old rope walk on South street, while Market Square was lively with work of recruiting and drilling. We remember well when subsequently Capt. Thatcher left his profitable business at his drug store on Market street and pitched his tent on Market Square with the injunction in large letters on the front saying: "Come In Out of the Draft!"

He went South with his company in the 16th Regiment, Company K, fighting with him Lieutenants Geo. T. Wildes and William A. Haven, the latter still living in active service as a civil engineer in Buffalo in railroad employ.

A few days ago we found among a collection of the documents of former days one that will be interesting to Portsmouth people. We note with some sadness that of the ninety-four names there remain but three or four who have survived the passage of some fifty years. Among them is that of Lieut. William A. Haven. There was in this list a subscription of one dollar to each name, and the money was duly appropriated.

The document is as follows:—We, the subscribers agree to pay the sums set against our several names, for the purpose of purchasing a Regulation Sword, Sash and Belt for Joseph H. Thatcher, George T. Wildes and William A. Haven, each:

BUTTERING THE DEALER'S PARNSIPS

To reverse the old saying—"When a manufacturer uses the advertising columns of the newspaper to tell about his goods he is buttering the parsnips of every dealer who carries them." He is sending customers to the dealer's store to seek those goods. He is creating business that will move the goods from the shelves. It is only plain horse sense for the dealer to take advantage of the created opportunity. It is natural he should favor newspaper advertising and favor the goods that are newspaper advertised. Co-operation with the manufacturer's newspaper advertising means increased business for the storekeeper.

COMPENSATION ACT IN MAINE IS DEFECTIVE

Legislature May Have to Make Change at Special Session.

The Workmen's compensation Act passed by the last session of the Maine legislature which goes in effect on July 1 is said to be very defective and it is believed will have to be changed by the Maine lawmakers.

Compensation underwriters have discovered a serious flaw, though apparently a clerical error, which would operate to give injured workmen who had been employed less than a year six times the compensation paid to steady employees. This would make necessary insurance rates of six times the usual amount, and would make compensation insurance under the Maine law prohibitive. It is suggested that the supreme court might declare a clause unconstitutional as being discriminatory or that a special session of the legislature might be called to correct the error. As the law does not become operative until January 1, and as the legislature is to meet in special session at about that time to revise the statutes it is possible that the correction may be made without serious inconvenience to any one.

Sub-division (G) of Section 1, Art. IX of the Workmen's Compensation Act (Chap. 125, public laws of 1915), is as follows:

If the injured employee has not so worked in such employment during substantially the whole of such immediately preceding year, his "average weekly wages" shall be three hundred times the average weekly wages, earnings or salary which an employee of the same class working substantially the whole of such immediately preceding year in the same or similar employment, in the same or a neighboring place, has earned in such employment during the days when so employed and working the number of hours constituting a full working day in such employment, divided by 52.

"A Little Out of the Way, but" "THE ACORN" BOOKS-STATIONERY PERIODICALS-LIBRARY

Porter Street, Opp. Post Office. Portsmouth, New Hampshire. Phone 1034R.

"Thankful's Inheritance," the new Cape Cod story by Joseph Lincoln is out and can be had at "The Acorn." Though there are a great number who delight in the quaint humor of Mr. Lincoln, and are impatient till they get a copy of each new story from his pen, there are many who are not yet acquainted with his inimitable characters.

For the benefit of those who are not yet friends of the creator of Captain Uri and Keziah Coffin, "The Acorn" will give to each purchaser of "Thankful's Inheritance" the rest of this week a copy of "Coles Philby" drawing, in color, of "The Daring Girl," a particularly attractive and timely addition to the decoration of any den or seaside living room.

SITUATION IN MEXICO GROWS MORE TANGLED

Carranza and Obregon Are Still Estranged and Trouble Is Feared.

Nogales, Ariz., June 22.—Mayo Indians who have followed the example of the Yaquis, in Sonora, Mexico, sacked Los Mochis, Sinaloa, yesterday according to J. B. Taylor, manager of the sugar company owning land in that section who telegraphed to the secretary of state at Washington today asking for protection.

Washington, June 22.—Deaths of friction in the Carranza ranks and the dissension among the Villa leaders were repeated today by the respective agencies of the Mexican factions. U. S. officials had no reports from their own representatives, but the belief still prevailed in official headquarters that the trouble between Generals Carranza and Obregon had not been healed and that the departure of General Villa at this time was an important military if not political loss.

General Angeles did not pass here en route to Boston. Information is meagre to his plans, though rumors are current that he really is in the United States to discuss with prominent Mexicans plans for the inauguration of a new movement that would have as its nucleus the Villa-Zapala troops.

According to official information Carranza refused to take the advice of General Obregon and accepted resignations of some of the cabinet ministers whose retention was insisted upon by Obregon.

Other advices say that General Pablo Gonzalez the Carranza commander marching against Mexico City who was ordered to halt until Carranza reorganized his cabinet had gone ahead and is now reported within a few miles of the old capital. Communication behind him to Vera Cruz is cut. This development is regarded as ominous in official quarters. Representatives have been made by the United States officials in Mexico and at Vera Cruz insisting that lives and property of foreigners must be protected. It is not as yet known whether the Villa-Zapala troops said to number 20,000 in Mexico City will offer resistance to Gonzalez or evacuate peacefully.

Less anxiety was felt over the situation in the Yaqui Valley today after Admiral Howard reported that he had been given assurances that 15,000 Sonora State troops were available for operations against the Indians who have been threatening American settlements.

President Wilson indicated to callers today that the Mexican situation did not seem to be clearer than it had been and that he was not as optimistic as he was a week ago about the possibilities of an agreement between the factions.

POUGHKEEPSIE REGATTA

Cornell has been victorious in ten of the 15 varsity races rowed at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., since 1900, with Syracuse in second place with three victories and Columbia and Pennsylvania splitting third place honors with one victory each. Here is the record of the varsity battles since 1900, showing the names of the victors:

1900	Pennsylvania
1901	Cornell
1902	Cornell
1903	Cornell
1904	Syracuse
1905	Cornell
1906	Cornell
1907	Cornell
1908	Syracuse
1909	Cornell
1910	Cornell
1911	Cornell
1912	Cornell
1913	Syracuse
1914	Columbia

The record time for the four mile course was made in 1901 by the winning Cornell crew, which covered the distance in 18 minutes and 53 seconds. The race was the fastest all-around water battle ever staged. The time for the Pennsylvania crew which finished sixth, was 19 minutes, 58 seconds, which was faster time than that made by the crews that won the races in 1904, 1905, 1907, 1910, and 1911.

The best time ever made for the two mile freshman eight oared race was by the 1909 Cornell crew which covered the distance in nine minutes, 25 seconds. The record time for the two mile four varsity four oared race, is ten minutes and one second, made by the 1901 Cornell crew. The varsity four oared race was abandoned in 1914 and the second or junior varsity eight oared race was substituted. A Cornell crew won that race last June.

PRESIDENT WILSON SEES NO PEACE SIGNS

Will Leave Tonight at Midnight for Trip to Summer Capital.

Washington, June 22.—President Wilson will leave Washington tomorrow at midnight for Cornish, N. H., where he intends to remain until July 5, unless developments in the European situation necessitate his presence in Washington in the mean time.

Col. E. M. House who returned recently from a confidential investigation of European conditions is expected to meet the President's train when it arrives in New York Thursday morning and it is probable he will give the President a first hand report of the situation in the principal warring countries. The President may decide to invite Colonel House to go with him to Cornish.

Since his return from Cornish Col. House has talked with the President over the long distance telephone and has sent him a comprehensive report covering interviews he had with leaders in Germany, France and England.

As far as can be ascertained, the President has little grounds for believing that peace prospects are likely to be bright in the near future. It is understood that Col. House has reported that he found no reason for believing that any of the belligerents are willing to discuss peace at this time upon terms which would be considered by their antagonists.

The President's decision to take a vacation now was also interpreted to

Real Worth vs. Low Cost

If you asked your butcher for a porterhouse steak and he handed you a cut of the flank and said, "This doesn't cost as much and is just as good," you wouldn't believe him, would you?

Yet the butcher's statement is just as truthful as the assertion that inferior baking powders made of alum or phosphate of lime are as good as Royal, which is made from cream of tartar.

Alum is a mineral acid salt, declared by many medical authorities unsafe to use in food.

Royal Baking Powder is as pure and wholesome as the vineyard grapes from which its cream of tartar is derived.

The only reason for using such substitutes as alum and lime phosphate is because their cost is less to the manufacturer.

U.S. WASHINGTON ORDERED TO CAPE HAITIEN

Cruiser and Her 700 Men Expected to Restore Peace.

Washington, June 22.—Rear Admiral Caperton with his flagship, the armored cruiser Washington, was ordered from Vera Cruz to Cape Haitien today to relieve the marines landed there last week by the French cruiser Des Cartes to preserve order. The Washington carries 500 bluejackets and 200 marines available for shore duty.

Haiti is turbulent again as the result of the recent overthrow of President Ram, the little Republic's eighth executive in seven years—by revolutionists under Dr. Restivo Dabon. Reports in Washington told of shooting in the streets of Cape Haitien and of the killing of natives charged with pillaging. As the converted yacht Eagle was the only American warship in the vicinity, the Des Cartes' commander promptly landed marines to protect the lives and property of foreigners.

Officials of the state department said today that France had not as yet notified the American government of this step. On his arrival at Cape Haitien however, Admiral Caperton will express the appreciation of the Washington government for the prompt action of the French commander and the French marines probably will be withdrawn.

THE RUBBER BATTLE.

Yale and Harvard Both Want Next Friday's Game.

The meeting between Yale and Harvard on Friday, June 25th at New London will be the "rubber" battle. The regatta is the 49th and each university has scored 24 victories since the rival crews began fighting it out in 1852.

Harvard won the 1852 meeting which was over a two mile course on Lake Winnepesaukee. In 1855 the race was transferred to Springfield, Mass., and was lengthened to three miles. From then until 1863 the races were rowed on Lake Quinsigamond. In 1860 it was transferred to Lake Salton, Ill. In 1876 it went back to Lake Quinsigamond and the course lengthened to four miles. In 1878 it was transferred to the Thames river at New London, Conn., where it has since been held.

No races were rowed in 1895, 1897,

RUSSIANS REPORTED ABANDONING LEMBERG

Reports from Berlin State That The Russians Are Leaving the City to Save Army

Berlin, June 22, by wire to New York, N. Y.—An announcement made today by the Overseas News Agency says that the Russians before Lemberg have been defeated along their whole line, and are fighting only to gain time in order to save their artillery and other war material.

"The Germans and Austrians are within ten miles of Lemberg," the announcement adds. "The main positions of the Russians are shelled by the armies of Generals Mackensen, Linington, Boehm-Ermold, Pfanner and Woytke."

The following official communication was issued yesterday at Vienna:

"The pursuing allied troops have advanced to Zolkiew, about eighteen miles north of Lemberg, and south of Lemberg to the Skemierek rivulet. The Russian troops on this line are everywhere being attacked."

"Near Tskolawow and Zydaczew, the enemy is attacking on the Dunajec. The troops of the army of General Pfanner have repulsed strong Russian attacks with the heaviest of losses to the enemy southwest of Potok Zlapy, near Zaleszczyki, and on the Bessarabian frontier. Otherwise the situation in the northeast is unchanged."

Overwhelming superiority of artillery again was chiefly responsible for Saturday's quick and decisive defeat of the Russian army in the new lines protecting Lemberg. An immense amount of heavy and middle calibre artillery was massed against the heights of Magierow, northwest of Lemberg, which is admirably adapted by nature for defence, and fortified with a triple series of entrenchments, constituted the strongest part of the Russian battle front. At a given signal the artillery opened fire against the Russian positions. The effect of the bombardment was crushing. A shower of high explosive shells such as broke the Russian defence along the Dunajec in May and in the battles on the San at the beginning of June, fell into the Russian trenches.

The Russian troops were shaken by the artillery attack and when the Austro-German infantry was ordered to charge they were able to sweep through and over all three lines of defence, not pausing until they reached the other side of the ridge overlooking the valley through which runs the railroad and the highway from Lemberg to Zolkiew and Bawa Ruska. Bawa Ruska now is occupied, the railway and highway are in Austro-German hands; a wedge of allied troops seems to run straight through the Russian right wing, parts of which are retreating northward, while the rest are being driven in on the main Russian force around Lemberg. The battle now is raging for the possession of the Galician metropolis and its fall is expected within a day or two at the latest. General von Mackensen's army, barely twelve miles away, is knocking at the gates from the north while General von Boehm-Ermold is north of the Grodek lakes. A further advance from the south would have been delayed by the rolling, wooded country between the Dunajec and Lemberg and this blow would not have menaced the Russian lines of retreat so seriously.

The details of one of the most audacious achievements of the war—the capture of a Russian general, a colonel and almost four hundred men, by a little squad of Austrian prisoners—has reached here. The chief actor in the event was Lieutenant von Pfander, the commander of a patrol of landwehr and uhlans, who was captured by Cosackes while scouting in the rear of the retreating Russians, after the battle of Tarnow, in May.

The Russian cavalry brigade to which the Cosackes belonged was continuing its retirement with von Pfander and the other Austrian prisoners, when it came under the fire of Austrian artillery. von Pfander, it is said, took advantage of the ensuing confusion and armed himself and six other prisoners with Russian rifles and ordered the general to surrender, and made him and a colonel and ten other officers and 352 men prisoners and captured fifteen guns, a number of horses and carts of the transport column. With the assistance of an Austrian machine gun detachment, which arrived later, von Pfander, it is asserted, took his prisoners and booty to the rear and turned them over to the corps headquarters.

NOW HAVE GOOD CHOIR

The Catholic Mission at Kittery now has an organized choir which sings regularly at the services on Sunday. The singers, a dozen or so in number, are making good progress under the direction of Miss Nellie Collier. Their work adds much solemnity to the service and is much appreciated by the large congregation that attend the mass on Sunday.

OFF FOR WASHINGTON

Senator Gallinger left for Washington on Tuesday to attend a meeting of the National Reservation Forestry Commission of which he is a member. The question of further purchases of land in the White Mountain region is to be considered and the senator is especially anxious to get a large appropriation for New Hampshire as possible.

GIRLS' CLUB PICNIC

About thirty members of the Girls' Club held an outing at Wallis Sands Tuesday evening. A basket lunch was enjoyed and bathing and sports made the evening a pleasant one. The party returned on the ten o'clock car. The chaperones were Miss Margaret Goodwin and Esther Slosberg.

Hon. John W. Emery attended an outing of the Insurance Agents at Manchester today.

A GOOD THING

When It Comes Along Don't Let It Get Away From You

"I really feel that it is hardly possible to say to much in favor of Grape-Nuts as a health food," writes a Chicago lady.

"For 5 or 10 years I had suffered from indigestion and chronic constipation, caused by the continued use of coffee and rich heavy foods. My ailment made my life so wretched that I was eager to try anything that held out a promise of help. And that is how I happened to buy a package of Grape-Nuts food last spring."

"That ended my experiments. For in Grape-Nuts I found exactly what I wanted and needed. From the day I began to use it I noticed an improvement and in a few weeks I found my health was being restored."

"My digestive apparatus now works perfectly and chronic constipation has been entirely relieved. I have gained in weight materially and life is a very pleasant thing to me so long as I use Grape-Nuts once or twice a day. I have found by experiment that if I leave it off for a few days my health suffers."

"A physician in our town has great success in treating stomach troubles, and the secret of it is that he puts his patient on Grape-Nuts food—it always brings back the power of digestion."

bookmark in the chapter entitled, "Things Better Left Unsaid." Be sure to read this chapter carefully, Francis.

To Ruth Alkon, Doris Beane, commonly known as Mrs. Gilchrist, bequeaths her facial contortions and weird poses, with this warning, that Ruth does not display them in history class.

Nellie Falvey and Ethel Proctor leave their self-evident dignity to Lauretta Hassett. You had better cage this gift, Lauretta, for it is a thing easily lost.

Fred Holland with joy resigns his position as cheer leader, to Ida Weeks, hoping that she will lead the cheers as successfully as he has done.

Nellie Holmes leaves her braided earmuffs to Marguerite Kivvan. Nellie hopes that you will not abandon this mode of hair dressing, Marguerite, for it is very convenient in cold weather.

Ralph Jordan bequeaths his well known ability to pitch to Ruth Berry of the "Greenland Braves." We hope, Ruth, that you will continue "Spike's" reputation and strike out sixteen girls in every game.

Mildred Carl and Carolyn Yeaton leave to Helen Ramsdell their reckless search for notoriety. We sincerely trust that this will not lead you to anything desperate, Helen.

John Bryant bestows upon George Snooks his inimitable exhibitions of Padrewski.

Hope Akerman leaves her faculty for making the corridors re-echo with promiscuous giggling to Florence Newton. We, on our part, hope that Florence will not use this gift to the annoyance of the teacher in Room Four.

Eunice Kenney regretfully bestows upon Tom Craig her art of bluffing which she has reduced to a science. In addition she leaves to Anna McWilliams her collection of borrowed antiques which include pencils, pens, etc. With such a supply, Anna, it surely will not be necessary to continue this practice.

Alice Kiley and Beatrice Frye leave to Ella Butler their array of red-ink marks on their report cards, which have been a sore trial to them during the past four years.

Phillip Long bequeaths to Joseph Archibald, his teacher's paraphernalia, including the ring and towel, which he carried artistically draped over his left arm.

Gertrude Call leaves to Arthur Davis her superfluous knowledge of American History. We all hope that this useful gift will not be a burden to you, Art, but we have our suspicions.

Charles Thomas magnanimously bestows upon Elizabeth Miller his perpetual "gift of gab," which resembles an automatic, self-starting talking-machine. You can buy talking-machines at any music store, Elizabeth, but none with such original records as Charles has.

Nellie Craig leaves her naturally curly locks to Ruth Weaver. Be sure not to go out into the rain, Ruthie, for you know!

With many lamentations, Pearl Hoyt leaves to Frances McCarthy her great ability to make chance acquaintances when the chaperone is not in evidence.

Frank Massey, with deepest regret, bestows upon Harold Sweetser his Ford automobile to be used for the same delightful purpose as Frank as used it. If you do not comprehend, stand on the corner of Cabot and Middle Streets any day, rain or shine.

Nathalie Helt leaves to Isabel McWilliams her quiet and retiring manner. Pin this on your middy, Bella, when you go to play basketball.

Nora Crowley regretfully gives to Marie Alkon the large and capacious box or rouge from which grows that bewitching complexion. Please use it sparingly, Marie.

Elsie Clark leaves to Doris Littlefield a large bottle of aromatic spirits of ammonia to aid you, Doris, when you go to Washington. Along with this bottle she also leaves you her keen sense of humor, so evident at all times.

John Timmons bestows upon Frank Palmer his passion for athletic coaches guaranteed not to swear in more than one language. Don't let this passion run away with you in Assembly Hall, Frank.

Irene Booma leaves her mad passion for following the styles to Marjorie Parmenter, provided that Marjorie agrees to look as spick and span as Irene has every day.

Effie Archibald bequeaths to Elizabeth Galloway her demure modesty, so noticeable in games of ball.

Ethel Leach sorrowfully relinquishes all claim to those bewitching earrings and elaborate coiffures, with which she is wont to bedeck herself. These she leaves, as a last bequest, to Bernice Klump.

Edwin Becker leaves to Gordon Somerville his mature judgment and vast knowledge of the business world.

Dorothy Hogue gives to Helen Colburn her craze to be a movie star. We hope, Helen, that you will use this gift so well that you will attain to the exalted position of Elaine, the second.

Caroline Marston bestows upon Alden Barnes her brilliant array of girdles. Do not reject them, Alden, for they can easily be made over into fashionable bow ties.

William Shuttlesworth bequeaths to Michael O'Leary his graceful carriage and strong social instincts.

Beatrice Gardner leaves to Frances Young her extreme tendencies to flattery. We do not know about the necessity of this gift but we hope it will be useful as well as ornamental in the future, Frances.

Julia Butler, Hazel Somerville and Hilda Gillespie leave to Sarah Campbell their aggressive personalities and extreme inquisitiveness especially in class affairs.

Pauline Moody bestows upon Thomas Sullivan his peaches and cream complexion and his entrancing dimples, which are the envy of all the girls.

To Martha Marden, Bertha Ware leaves her inexhaustible pocketbook, which furnishes her and her friends with lucious recess "cans." This is a valuable gift, Martha, especially when you rise too late in the morning to procure any breakfast.

Hazel Katsch bequeaths to Frank Snow her poetic effusions. May we be permitted to express the hope that you will not abuse this gift by writing love sonnets, Frank.

Donald Finlayson gives to Nathalie Clark his much used, dog-eared cook-book which has faithfully served him these many years.

Margaret Kiley leaves to Ruth Bennett her excellent reproduction of Hart's History, as exhibited in her note book. This is all the History text-book that you will need next year, Ruth, for it is complete except for illustrations.

Gertrude Lear despondently passes on to Marion Gilkey her envious seat in Room Four, where muscalsines are wont to assemble. Of course, we feel sorry for you, Gertrude, but you ought not to be stingy.

George Trefethen leaves to Jerome Connors his magic for writing addresses in shorthand. This will be particularly convenient when you journey to Washington, Jerome, if you are not too indolent to make use of it.

Marion Bryant bequeaths her athletic prowess to Teresa Crowley. This will be of great assistance to you in fighting the battles of life.

Ethel Kenney bestows upon Ruth Seybolt her schedule, carefully planned to escape work. We all are aware, Ethel, that you always take the easiest way out of difficulties.

Winthrop Burke generously leaves to Charles Perkins his shoes, size number seventeen, with which he shakes the foundations of the school when he lightly trips to classes. We hope that you will not tire of carrying these around, Charlie.

Mary Daley bequeaths to Gladys Robinson her grandiloquent literary style, and her pure and elegant diction, which have made her a charter member in the Palgrave Literary Club.

Mary Gullinan leaves to Lucie Gorman her extreme enthusiasm for all school affairs. We trust, Lucie, that you will attend class meetings, occasionally, hereafter.

Paul Conover bestows upon Guy Plaisted his unfinished manuscript of the rules and regulations for writing heart-rending love notes, on condition that you, Guy, complete this and put it in print as soon as possible.

To Dewey Graham, Rachel Bryant leaves her assiduous applications to all academic pursuits. We hope that you will not lose any of your superfluous ponderosity, Dewey, as a result of this generous gift.

Edith Clough gives to Alice Grace her seat in Room Ten, from which she carries on those delightfully sweet flirtations. You had better not let the teacher see you though, Alice!

Herbert Harrington has at last reluctantly consented to give up to Lawrence Carrier that perpetual smile together with that fiery hue which adorns his cheeks when he is slightly embarrassed.

Leon Roberts gives over to Carlton Badger his passion for tragic romances, of which some have ended, some are about to end; while others have just begun.

John Granin bequeaths to Justin French his pattern for short trousers. We shall be exceedingly disappointed, Judy, if you do not appear in an exact duplicate of these before long.

Barbara Flanigan, the ragtime Mendelssohn of our esteemed class, leaves to Dorothy Cotton those toe-twitching melodies which she has stowed away in her memory.

Fred Gibson bequeaths to Bernard Paul his carefully trained porcupine coiffure, with the understanding that you, Bernard, train it as precisely as Fred has.

Louise French bestows upon Austin Barrett her noted and brilliant solutions of Geometry propositions.

Charles Parsons, our philosopher, confers upon Vallis Band his rapid and superficial recitations which are a great joy to the teachers.

Herman Pettigrew leaves to Reginald Dechene his promptness at eight o'clock in the morning and his excellent school attendance record, on condition that the recipient will keep up the good work.

Frances Parker, the champion candy consumer, bestows upon Ruth Goodrich and Bernice Hoyt an equal proportion of her three thousand and two hundred ounces. Surely this is enough for two.

Lois Seybolt leaves to Alfred Pickering her evident blankness and boisterousness on all occasions.

Finally, we, the Class of Nineteen Hundred and Fifteen, graciously bestow upon the Class of Nineteen Hundred and Sixteen, Room Four, with all its various instruments of torture together with that part of the cold storage room which we have of late occupied.

In witness whereof we have hereunto subscribed our names, the twenty-fourth day of June, in the year of our Lord, One Thousand, Nine Hundred and Fifteen.

THE CLASS OF NINETEEN HUNDRED AND FIFTEEN.

We, the undersigned, do certify and confirm this to be the last will and testament of the Class of Nineteen Hundred and Fifteen.

Signed,

DORIS KAULA,
FRANCIS PARKER,
LOIS A. SEYBOLT.

WILL HAVE STRONG TEAM AT YORK BEACH

Under the direction of Manager Jack Ashworth, of Sanford, plans have been completed for the most satisfactory and successful baseball season that York Beach sojourners and visitors have ever enjoyed. A new grandstand and additional bleachers are now in process of construction on the grounds near the Boston & Maine railroad station, leased by Manager Ashworth for the season of 1915. When the season opens on Thursday, July 1, York Beach will have one of the finest and fastest semi-professional baseball fields to be found in all New England.

The schedule provides for a total of 53 games, a match every day, except Sunday, for a period of nine weeks, weather permitting. The grandstand, which is roof sheltered, together with the bleachers, will provide seating capacity for about 600 people. Provision is being made for excursion crowds. A number of special days, when reduced railroad fares and unusual attractions will be provided, are being planned. One of the projected special days will take the form of a monster clambake. Carnation day, is another. This is scheduled for Saturday, July 10, when the visiting team will be from the Shawmut club of Roxbury, Mass.

The personnel of the York Beach baseball club for the season of 1915, is as follows: Pitching staff, Frost, Gill, Ferguson and Weare; catchers, O'Connor and Burke; shortstop, Brackett; first base, Thornton; second base, McKenna; third base, Plaisted; left field, Simpson; center field, Cavanaugh; right field, Gill or Ferguson.

Pitcher Frost is from the University of Maine; Gill comes from the Boston College team; Ferguson is a fine pitcher from Everett, Mass.; while Russell Weare is well known to York Beach baseball fans. Catcher O'Connor is a West Somerville lad, while Burke is a favorite South Boston backstop. Thornton, who will cover first base, was but recently in the line-up of the Lowell of the New England league. Charley McKenna, who has been signed up as second sacker for York Beach, used to hike with the Boston Nationals. The third position will be carefully cared for by Raymond Plaisted of Sanford, who has been putting up a good game for Tilton Seminary. Bill Brackett of Greenland, who needs no introduction, will rake in the hot ones at short and shoot them where they will best boost his fine fielding average.

Ernest C. (Swipes) Simpson, recently re-elected captain of the Colby College team, will look after the left garden for York Beach this season. He was the unanimous choice for captain of next year's team. He is a sure, clean fielder, capable of covering a large territory and is an able batsman. He is reported to be at his very best this year. As Coach "Smiling" Ben Houser has said of him: "There's a lot of little left gardeners, but remember, there's only one 'Swipes'." Simpson has played on the Colby team each of his three years in college. His home is in Waterville.

Carl Cavanaugh, of Manchester, N. H., will manure the daisies in the middle garden. Gill or Ferguson will cover right field. "Hiple" Rowe, of the University of Maine, a Springfield boy, will be seen in the line-up occasionally. Harry Hayes is another very likely prospect.

Games have been arranged with some of the fastest of New England's semi-professional teams. The schedule for the first three weeks is as follows:

Opening game, Thursday, July 1, at York Beach—Pine Tree A. A., Portland, vs. York Beach B. B. C.

Friday, July 2—Sanford Independents.

Saturday, July 3—Revere Athletic Association.

WEEK OF JULY 5.

Monday—Revere A. A. Two games

Tuesday—Rochester.

Wednesday—Greenland.

Thursday—Newburyport.

Friday—Portsmouth Marines.

Carnation Day, Saturday—Shawmut Club, of Roxbury.

WEEK OF JULY 12.

Monday—Dorchester.

Tuesday—Dorchester.

Wednesday—Newburyport.

Thursday—Fort McKinley.

Friday—Sanford Independents.

Saturday—Osborne Athletic Association.

These matches will present an abundance of sport during the first three weeks of the season, from July 1 to July 17, inclusive. It is anticipated that the Carnation Day match will be one of the features of the early season. The Shawmut Club of Roxbury, Mass., is one of the strongest social and athletic organizations in New England, numbering about 500 members. Practically every club member will visit York Beach on Carnation Day, the proceeds of which, in excess of expenditures, will be in the nature of a benefit for the York Beach baseball club. Proceeds from the programmed clambake, later in the season, will be devoted to the same worthy purpose.

The York Beach team members have

SUMMER EMBASSY ON NORTH SHORE OPEN.

Beverly, June 22—With the opening today of the summer embassy of Great Britain at the Miss Fannie Powell Mason cottage, off Prince street, at the Cove, Beverly became the seat of two embassies, the British and the Italian, Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador, and Lady Spring-Rice are planning to stay until late in the autumn. Count Maechi di Cellere, the Italian ambassador, is located at Pile Pine Hall, the Duke cottage at the Farms, for the summer. Because of the war in Europe it is expected that both embassies will be busy and both will have direct wire connections with Washington.

COACH COURTNEY DETERMINED RED AND WHITE SHALL MAKE CLEAN SWEEP IN POUGHKEEPSIE REGATTA.

COACH COURTNEY

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 25—Charles Courtney, coach of the Cornell University rowing crews and the "grand old man of the rowing game," has the fire of determination in his eyes these days—the determination to bring Cornell out on top in the big rowing regatta on the Hudson. Last season Courtney was treated to a very unpleasant surprise in the big event of the regatta, the first varsity contest when Columbia and Syracuse crossed the finish line lengths in advance of his charges. This season he is planning to reverse the surprise. Nothing short of a clean sweep this year will satisfy the veteran coach, as he considers that only such a result will completely wipe out the stigma of last year's upset. Courtney may realize his ambitions, but it is certain that his crews will have to be in first class trim to do it, and even then they will have to fight for every advantage, for the crews of Columbia and Syracuse look as strong as they were last year.

DANCING PARTY HELD IN FREEMAN'S HALL

FIFTY-FIFTY CLUB HOSTS AT ENJOYABLE PARTY LAST EVENING

The "Fifty-Fifty" Club, an organization composed of members of the crew of the U. S. S. Montana, gave an enjoyable invitation dancing party in Freeman's Hall last evening at which about fifty couples were in attendance. Several novel feature dances were introduced, among them being a continuous two-step and a "tag" waltz.

The party was strictly an invitation affair and the members and the officers of the club made it their business to see that all their guests were enjoying the evening as far as was in their power to make things pleasant.

Music for the dancing was furnished by a four piece orchestra and the committee allowed as many encores as the dancers demanded. At 10:30 there was an intermission of fifteen minutes at which time refreshments of ice cream, cake and punch was served by Nichols.

The party was under the direction of the officers of the club, N. H. Bradley, president; J. P. Donovan, vice-president; R. H. Burns, secretary; and W. Henderson, treasurer.

At the conclusion of the intermission the dancing was resumed and was continued until a late hour. It was voted by the guests to be one of the most pleasurable parties given in the hall this season, and the club members and officers were congratulated by all on the success of the affair.

The club is composed of the following members: Messrs. Bradley, Donovan, Burns, Henderson, Wendell, Crooks, Delacy, Schenkel, McGrath, Mitchell, Healey, Lambert, Gettman, Robertson, Wang, Baldwin, Wallace, Wetmore, Eastman, Goldberg, Johnson, Switzer, Johnny, Peters, Knox, Curran and Rivenburg.

APOLOGIZES FOR THE SUNDAY CHARGES

Philadelphia, June 22—Following threats to expose "inside stuff" concerning the "Bible" Sunday party's workings, and a charge of plagiarism against his "boss," B. D. Ackley, former secretary to "Bible" Sunday, baseball evangelist, today issued a statement apologizing for recent remarks. He attributed his statements to "an unfortunate weakness." Ackley's apology was:

"In unguarded and almost unconscious moments, owing to an unfortunate weakness, and under peculiar circumstances, I may have said things which have been distorted with statements for which I disclaim responsibility."

POPULAR YOUNG COUPLE MARRIED

Miss Margaret McEvoy Becomes the Bride of Walter D. Guiney.

A very pretty June wedding took place at eight o'clock this morning at the Church of the Immaculate Conception when Miss Margaret McEvoy became the wife of Walter D. Guiney in the presence of a very large number of friends, relatives and acquaintances of both bride and groom.

The ceremony was performed by acting pastor, Rev. Frank A. Minivan, who also officiated at the wedding, following the same. A quartet from the senior choir rendered the music during the mass.

Thomas Palmer, Robert Anderson, Walter Roche and Peter Hickey acted as ushers.

The bride wore a dress of cream crepe, with pearl bandoliers. She was attended by her sister as bridesmaid, who was gowned in duchess satin pink, silk shadow lace, picture hat.

The best man was William E. Johnson of Everett, Mass., a cousin of the bride.

At ten o'clock a reception was held and a repast served at the bride's home, 19 Whidden street. The menu consisted of lobster salad, hot rolls, cold ham and turkey, potato salad, assorted cake, coffee and ice cream.

The home was prettily decorated with cut flowers and ferns. The gifts were of a choice variety and testified to the esteem in which the contracting parties are held by a wide circle of friends and associates.

In the exchange of gifts, the groom gave the bride a pearl necklace, and the bride gave the groom a gold chain. The best man received a set of gold cuff links from the groom, and the bridesmaid a pearl friendship circle from the bride.

They will pass their honeymoon in Bangor, Portland and the White Mountains and on their return will reside on Summer street in a newly furnished home.

The bride's traveling dress was of sandstone with hat to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Guiney are popular young people and a host of friends extend congratulations, hoping that the joys of their married life will be as numerous as the petals of the bride's bouquet.

acted a social time was enjoyed. It was voted to hold an outing at Old Orchard Beach some time during the month of July. A supper consisting of crab salad, rolls, strawberry short cake, pie, cake, fruit and coffee was served by the hostess. The club will not meet again for a month.

HOBOES ARE PLENTY

Hoboes have been making life very unpleasant for the trainmen on the Boston and Maine railroad of late. On Tuesday evening word was received at the police station that a number of the knights of the road were enjoying a free ride on a freight train due here from Boston shortly before eleven o'clock. Officers Kelley and Schneider were sent to the depot but on the arrival of the train the hoboes had made their departure.

RACES AND BOAT PARADE

Yacht Club Has Fine Program for July 5th.

The Portsmouth Yacht Club are arranging an elaborate program for July 5th and it is evident that the organization is going to do its share towards entertaining the public on that date. At 9 o'clock in the morning there will be a motor boat race known as the "Bang and go-back race." This is a very interesting contest and is open to all club members. At 4 p. m. a decorated motor boat parade will take place and will be open to all. The decorated craft will move from the club house to Daniel street, across the river to the navy yard, along the Kittery shore and back to the landing on Mechanic street. At 6 p. m. it is expected that a grand rowing race by the crews of the several ships at the navy yard will take place for prizes. This will be a big feature of the day and the navy men are all anxious to get into the race. Rivalry between the crews of the Montana and North Carolina is at fever heat and the jockies of both cruisers will show some speed with the oar.

EQUALITY IN ALL THINGS

In the early pioneer days mothers were called upon to protect their little ones from Indians and against other forms of harm. On horseback they rounded up the herds of cattle. There was no feeble species about it, no subjection, no aristocracy of sex. It was natural equality, an equality of comradeship, and equality of intelligent endeavor and hardship and suffering and sacrifice, which always deepens the finer sensibility of a woman and refines the coarser sensibility of a man. The men of the West make little of these nice and subtle and more or less artificial distinctions between the woman in politics and the man in politics. They instinctively feel that their women are as competent to vote as to do other and stranger and more difficult things to which they have put their hands. Comrades in one, comrades in all. * * * The West certainly falls to see in it the conjured horrors of advanced feminism.—Frederick M. Davenport, The Outlook, June 16, 1915.
